

Two German Teams of Educators Visit Canada

German Teachers Visit New Brunswick

Anke Grafe and Anke Stenzel led a group of 6 teachers from Germany who spent two weeks in New Brunswick recently. They came to see how inclusive education works. They visited schools and classrooms, talked to teachers, principals and other schools staff and looked at and reviewed a variety of materials on inclusive education practice. Robin Crain of School District 14 in Woodstock helped coordinate their visit and helped the team access local schools.

German Researchers in Canada

Earlier in the year two researchers from Germany visited three provinces in Canada. Gordon Porter helped them organize their visit to Montreal, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Shown at the right is Dr. Dieter Katzenbach, a professor at the University of Frankfurt, as well a doctoral student Christoph Degen. Diana Carr organized their visit to schools in Montreal, Carla Digiorgio of UPEI was their guide in Prince Edward Island, and Dany Desjardins, Angela AuCoin and Robin Crain and the staff of School District 14 in Woodstock provided the hospitality in New Brunswick. Professor Katzenbach will be reflecting on his visit to Canada at a session at the Conference in Salamanca Spain in October.
